IAS officer's miracle drink promises to cure chronic diseases

DHIRENDRA KUMAR

NEW DELHI: Believe it or not, there is an ayurvedic medicine which claims to cure chronic lung, liver, kidney, orthopedic, gastroenteritis disorders and has solution to all lifestyle-borne diseases. The drug christened as Miracle Drinks has been invented by Bihar's SC/ST Welfare Department Principal Secretary SM Raju, who is an Agriculture Science graduate having background of medicinal plants course study.

The drug has its legal validity as it has been approved by the Directorate of Ayush of the Karnataka's health department and Union Ayush Minister Shripad Naik is among the several beneficiaries of the miraculous medicine. Other public figures, who have experienced the miracle, include Minister of State for MSME Giriraj Singh, SN Jha (retired chief justice of Rajasthan), SK

Singh (retired chief justice of Patna High Court), academicians and common citizens.

While talking to Milennium Post, Raju narrated how a single incident in his life led to a complete surprising turn of events and eventually this invention. When Raju came to know that his father was suffering from a kidney failure in 2008 and his second son from blood cancer in 2010, he started studying medicinal plants intensively to cure his father's acute renal failure.

"It was on him that I conducted the trial in April 2014. Within a week of taking my medicine, his creatinine level improved, and so did levels of potash, urea and other parameters," the IAS officer said, who has also in his name a world record of planting 9.6 million plants in a single day in Bihar.

Raju has discovered drugs to provide anti-ageing support, ortho support, cardio-vascular support, renal support, gastro support and liver health support, which are collectively available under the brand name 'Miracle Drinks'.

According to the 1991-batch IAS officer, his father is now 84 years old and enjoys all sorts of food including red meat, chicken and occasionally red wine and beer.

"The commercial launch of Miracle Drinks has been scheduled for October 30 and all products would be available on leading e-commerce platforms such as Snapdeal and Amazon. Since the product is characterised as over the counter product, so no doctor's prescription would be required for getting the medicine," the officer said.

Giving credit to Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar for showing confidence on him, Raju said, "When I approached CM to discuss about my inventions, he patiently listened to me and granted leave for the research work. He offered every support that I asked. It's the result of his trust on me that miracle drinks have become a reality."

Acknowledging the benefits of Miracle Drinks, Patna-based Giridhar Jhunjunwala, a beneficiary, said, "I got the medicine for my wife, who was suffering from chronic lung disorder. Started the medicine from August onward and result is overwhelming. "After 8 years of prolonged disease, I've come out with my wife to a shopping mall and having pizza. It's the effect of Raju's medicines. It's a miracle for me," Jhunjunwala said over phone.
